

GYM CARE SOS

There's nothing like an invigorating workout to leave you feeling energised and inspired. But what does all of that perspiration and body-hugging gym wear do to your skin? On average, your body sheds 70 billion skin cells a day. And a sweaty workout produces twice as much! These impurities can leave your skin looking dull, lifeless and coarse. And while you may think that a long hot shower should do the trick, you need more than a little lather to wash away the build-up of all those dead skin cells.
